

8th Annual Jerrell H. Shofner Lecture Series on Florida History and Culture

featuring

Dr. Martha S. Jones

Professor of History and the Society of Black Alumni Presidential Professor at The John Hopkins University

The Right to Vote:

Women and Race in the 1920 Election

As a legal and cultural historian whose work examines how Black Americans have shaped the story of American democracy, Martha S. Jones recently released her latest work, Vanguard: How Black Women Broke Barriers, Won the Vote, and Fought for Rights for All (2020). The book explores the epic history of African American women's pursuit of political power and how it transformed America.

Monday, October 12, 2020

6:00pm - 7:30pm

Zoom Webinar

Free and open to the public.

Register HERE to attend the lecture.

Presented by

The Florida Historical Quarterly
UCF Department of History

